Marking Period Grades Are In… What If I Have A Concern?

Breathe 1-2-3!  Breathe 1-2-3! In our days of Internet and Skyward report card grades these should not be a shock. But in case there are concerns relating to report card grades we suggest the following steps.

1. Check Skyward for grades, missing work, attendance, and teacher comments. (Remember parents and students should have Skyward Passwords.)
2. Look through returned papers and compare grades posted to grades on assignments. If grades do not match set up an appointment with the teacher.
3. Organize your concerns and e-mail the teacher with whom you have the concern. Please share your concern in a calm and respectful way. Provide the teacher with whatever background you have relating to your concern. (Please encourage the student to contact the teacher prior to a parent contacting the teacher.)
4. If the concern is not addressed efficiently or needs to be looked at more in depth then make an appointment with the student and teacher. (If necessary the parent can attend too.)

School Counselors and Assistant Principals will always have you address the concern directly with the teacher before getting involved. Please be respectful of the team relationship that parents and teachers must form.

The best prevention to surprises about grades is to check Skyward daily.
